About

“What are you?” is a question Christina Aldan has been asked by strangers since she was a little girl growing up on the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Born to a Caucasian mother and a Chinese father she never knew, the answer was riddled with shame and pain - reminders of a childhood in poverty and kids treating her like an outsider for being a nerdy Asian bookworm.

The question “What are you?” would ultimately lead Christina to discover that the answer is ever-evolving and that we are all defined by the sum of each experience, relationship, and hardship we embrace. She encourages us to step away from what’s comfortable and welcome the adventure that comes with jumping into the deep end of the pool and figuring out how to swim.

We live in a world where connecting and building a tribe of like-minded people, new customers, and supporters is filled with possibilities. That ultimately led Christina to focus her unique set of skills toward guiding business owners through the world of their brand strategy. For over a decade, Christina has been helping clients realize the full potential of their businesses by creating strategic advertising campaigns and processes. Christina helps executives and leaders understand how they perform best instead of working against brain tendencies.
